Master of the UNIVERSE

Lightsabers at the ready... Ewan McGregor returns to take on the might of the Empire in Star Wars spin-off series Obi-Wan Kenobi

NEW SCI-FI

Obi-Wan Kenobi

From Friday 27 May, Disney+

Over 20 years after he first picked up a lightsaber in The Phantom Menace, Ewan McGregor steps back into the Star Wars universe this week to reprise his role as Jedi Master Obi-Wan Kenobi.

Set in a galaxy far, far away, the six-part series – launching with two episodes on 27 May, with a new episode released weekly thereafter – takes place in the years after his one-time best friend and Jedi apprentice Anakin Skywalker turned to the ‘dark side’ to become evil Sith Lord Darth Vader.

Now, with the Jedi being hunted by the Empire, Obi-Wan finds himself in hiding on the desert planet of Tatooine, where he keeps a watchful eye over the young Luke Skywalker, in the hope he will one day be able to use the Force to defeat his father.

‘I think the new series is going to satisfy Star Wars fans,’ McGregor tells TV&Satellite Week. ‘I always felt there was a story between when I finished playing Obi-Wan in the movies and where Alec Guinness is Obi-Wan Kenobi in the original trilogy. I’m not going to give away anything about the storyline, but at the beginning we find Obi-Wan rather broken, faithless, beaten and having somewhat given up.’

As the action begins, Obi-Wan is still haunted by his last meeting with Anakin, where he left his former protégé burning in a pool of lava following a ferocious duel.

ISOLATED

‘We pick up the story 10 years after Revenge of the Sith, and it’s a dark period for Obi-Wan and the galaxy,’ reveals director Deborah Chow, who also helmed spin-off series The Mandalorian. ‘All his Jedi comrades are either dead or in hiding since the Empire took over, and he’s consumed with feelings about Anakin and what happened between them. There’s a lot of stuff to deal with and the series explores a lot of the darkness that’s weighing on him.’

Hayden Christensen played Anakin Skywalker on the big screen, and he’ll be donning

Fourth Sister (Rya Kihlstedt), Reva (Moses Ingram), Fifth Brother (Sung Kang) and an Imperial captain (Indira Varma)

Darth Vader’s famous mask when he reprises the role in this series.

‘Vader is dealing with choices he’s made,’ Christensen tells TV&Satellite Week. ‘Now he wants to find Obi-Wan Kenobi and settle some unfinished business, but there’s a lot of internal conflict. His need to kill Obi-Wan is basically him wanting to kill that part of himself. What’s exciting about this series is we get a glimpse into the experience of being Darth Vader.’

Star Wars fans will be delighted at the prospect of the pair crossing lightsabers again, and McGregor has admitted his journey back to playing the character has been one of mixed emotions.

DOUBTS

‘I remember in the run-up to being cast as Obi-Wan Kenobi back in the 90s, I spent a lot of time wondering whether I should take the part or not and what it would mean for my career, because I was doing more grungy films like Trainspotting at the time,’ he explains.

‘In the end, I did it because I loved Star Wars when I was a kid. My uncle, Denis Lawson, played a pilot called Wedge Antilles in the original trilogy and my brother and I knew every line, so I wanted to be a part of that world. But when our prequels came out, they weren’t very well-received.’

It was the filming of the 2017 sequel to Trainspotting that eventually persuaded the 51-year-old to take the plunge and return to the world of Star Wars.

‘I saw how interesting it was to come back to a role 20 years later,’ he explains. ‘At the same time, I started to meet people who liked the prequels – the generation who were kids at the time and I was their Obi-Wan Kenobi, just like Alec Guinness was mine. I was always being asked if I’d play him again in interviews and I just started saying I would.’

It wasn’t long before Disney came to find out if McGregor was serious about reprising the role, but even after signing up, he had to keep the news under his Jedi hood for a number of months while Disney oversaw several script rewrites. When filming finally got underway in LA last May, the memories came flooding back.

‘It was so interesting to see the crew’s reaction when I came out for the first screen test wearing Obi-Wan’s robes,’ he smiles. ‘Getting into costume really helped me find his voice again – although I still have to imagine Alec Guinness saying the lines!’

NIGHTMARE in Hawkins

The gang face a terrifying new threat played by horror legend Robert Englund

NEW SCI-FI

Stranger Things

From Friday 27 May, Netflix

The third season of Stranger Things ended in spectacular fashion as the gang duelled the terrifying Mind Flayer in an explosive battle at the Starcourt Mall, which was exposed as a cover for a secret Russian facility.

There are plenty more thrilling adventures in store when the hit series returns this week. The fourth instalment of the 1980s-set supernatural drama is split into two parts, with the second volume coming on Friday 1 July.

The new season will see the gang come up against the villainous Victor Creel, played by horror legend Robert Englund, who starred as Freddy Krueger in A Nightmare on Elm Street (see panel, right). Creel is a disturbed killer currently imprisoned in a psychiatric hospital for a gruesome murder in the 1950s.

'Creel is our version of Freddy Krueger or Hellraiser's Pinhead,' explains showrunner Ross Duffer, who writes the show with his brother Matt. 'Since season one, we've wanted to include a villain that could actually speak to our characters and get into their heads. It's much more of a psychological horror this year as opposed to just a monster series.'

PULLED APART

As we pick up the story, the pals have been separated, with Eleven (Millie Bobby Brown) now living in California with Joyce Byers (Winona Ryder) and her sons Jonathan and Will (Charlie Heaton and Noah Schnapp).

The teen lost her supernatural powers in the destruction of the series-three finale, and another sinister turn sees her revisiting dark moments from her past.

'Eleven has to go back and re-experience a lot of the things she wished she'd forgotten, which is very traumatic,' says

Matt Duffer. 'More than anything else, the fourth season is about those revelations.'

Meanwhile, back in Hawkins, Lucas and the rest of the gang are finding themselves pulled in different directions by the pressures of high school.

'Lucas gravitates towards the jocks because he's athletic, and he thinks he has a shot at being

Eleven (Millie Bobby Brown, centre) with Argyle, Jonathan, Will and Mike

Robert Englund as Victor Creel

Sheriff Hopper (David Harbour) is presumed dead

A mysterious new enemy is introduced in season four popular for once,' says Matt Duffer. 'Dustin and Mike, who are less athletically gifted, drift more naturally to the Hellfire Club, with the nerds and the outsiders, which creates a little bit of a rift between our core characters. Meanwhile, Max is still reeling from the death of her brother Billy.'

The gang are also still struggling to process the death of Hopper, who seemingly sacrificed himself while closing the door to the dark world of the Upside Down.

'The ending to season three was the darkest so far and we continue that darkness,' says Ross Duffer. 'It's about dread and it's also about revelations. We learn a lot about the Upside Down and what this evil force that's been threatening Hawkins all these years really wants.'

KING OF HORROR

Robert Englund on his blood-curdling career...

When the Stranger Things team were looking for an actor to play the show's new menace, it's no surprise that Robert Englund was at the top of their list. The 74-year-old made his name as Freddy Krueger in the A Nightmare on Elm Street movie series, and his Stranger Things character, unhinged killer Victor Creel, is the latest in a long line of screen monsters and villains.

'Bad guys are a little more complex. They've got more layers, and are fun to do,' explains Englund. 'I do a lot of horror comedies, a lot of over-the-top roles – evil princes, mad scientists – and it's an honour that I've been mentioned among the royalty of horror, [alongside] people like Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi.'

Deadly harvest

Grace and Branson investigate a gang selling human organs

LAST ONE CRIME DRAMA

Grace

Sunday, 8pm, ITV

Cop drama Grace signs off this week with a gruesome case for Roy Grace, played by John Simm, as he hunts a ruthless gang of criminals who are harvesting organs from vulnerable immigrants and selling them on the so-called 'red market'.

The investigation begins when a body is dredged up from the bottom of the English Channel and discovered to have a sinister incision on its chest. And it's not long before two other bodies with similar wounds are found...

ILLEGAL TRADE

'The black market for organs is massive,' says writer Peter James, upon whose books the series is based. 'About three people die every day in Britain while waiting for a liver transplant, so our bodies are probably worth around a million euros in total.'

Grace's investigations lead him to a mother who becomes caught up in the criminals' web when she desperately seeks a new liver for her sick daughter.

But while Grace rushes to find the gang, he is also concerned about the wellbeing of his partner DS Glenn Branson (Richie Campbell), who has been struggling with trauma after being shot in the season opener.

FUTURE PLANS

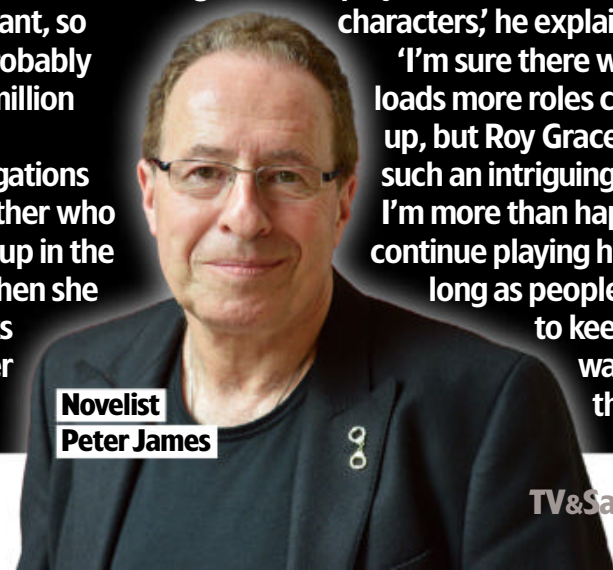

'The lovely thing with Roy and Glenn is that they are genuinely best friends and it really comes across – they are just a great partnership,' says Simm. 'But Roy is worried about Glenn's mental health because he's changed as a result of the shooting.'

Simm, 51, says he would love to return as the Brighton cop for more investigations in the future.

'When I was younger, I didn't want to hang around projects for too long because I wanted to do different stuff, but I've been doing this job for 30-odd years now and I've played loads of different characters,' he explains.

'I'm sure there will be loads more roles coming up, but Roy Grace is just such an intriguing part. I'm more than happy to continue playing him as long as people want to keep watching the show.'

Family at WAR

Sue Perkins uncovers poignant wartime stories in her ancestry...

NEW FACTUAL

Who Do You Think You Are?

Thu, 9pm (times vary), BBC1

When Sue Perkins' father Bert sadly passed away in 2017, she felt compelled to explore her roots. A new series of BBC1 genealogy show Who Do You Think You Are? gives her the chance to do just that – and she was moved to find stories of triumph over adversity on both sides of her family.

'When you lose a family member, it feels like you've been flying in a hot-air balloon and suddenly someone's snipped one of the cables, so there's a sense of precariousness,' says the comedian and former Bake Off host, 52.

'For me to recalibrate, I wanted to find out something about my dad's antecedents and why I'm the person I am. What impact has my ancestry had on my patterns of behaviour?'

Her research began with her paternal grandfather, Albert Perkins, who was born in 1875 and tragically lost both parents and his stepmother when he was a child, ending up in the workhouse.

EXTRAORDINARY LIVES

He eventually joined the Army and contracted trench foot in World War One. But his story had a happy ending when he married Perkins' beloved grandmother

Florence and supported her as she became one of the first trained midwives in the 1920s and worked during the Southampton Blitz.

'My grandad went from being this stern, ancient man in photos to being fleshed out. I felt heartbroken at the loss that he sustained when he was just a child,' says Perkins. 'But I'm glad he met my nan, who was a font of good vibes but a terrible cook! Perhaps if she hadn't met somebody older and wiser who had gone through his own trauma, she would not have been able to be, in her own small way, a social pioneer.'

HARDSHIPS

Perkins went on to investigate her maternal great-grandfather Emil Müller, a tailor in London, who was interned as an 'enemy alien' in a camp on the Isle of Man during World War One, due to his German background.

'My mum remembers her grandad was quiet. He probably lived with a sense of shame,' reveals Perkins, who travelled to the camp, Knockaloe, to find out more. 'It is a strange place and they did extraordinary things there. One of the other detainees was the man who invented Pilates.'

Emil's wife, Anna, and her family also came on to Perkins' radar when she visited the former site of their farm in Lithuania. There, she learnt that after Anna left for London, her remaining relatives, including her brother Albert, were caught up in the conflict between the Nazis and the Russians during World War Two.

'I found it

'I couldn't breathe because I didn't know where that story was going. Some of their partners' families were murdered,' explains Perkins. 'I found that overwhelming because it resonates strongly today. And it made sense of my own restlessness. Perhaps my frustration at confinement comes from the fact that pretty much all of my relatives were interned in some way.'

Despite the harrowing stories she uncovered, Perkins is proud of how her ancestors faced their challenges with strength, and she now feels a powerful connection to them.

'It was a brilliant, painful, extraordinary ride. But I feel lucky as they were inspirational folk,' she says. 'This helped me put together the jigsaw puzzle of my life.'

COMING UP IN THE SERIES

Richard Osman

The House of Games host and crime author is stunned to learn about a shocking murder trial in which one of his ancestors was involved.

Matt Lucas

Fascinated to explore the life of his Jewish grandmother Margot, the Bake Off host discovers harrowing tales of the Holocaust.

Anna Maxwell Martin

Along with hearing about her grandfather and the impact of a terrible separation, the Motherland star unearths a story of family unity.

Ralf Little

The Death in Paradise star finds out about a strong family link to Manchester and is thrilled to be told about a footballing triumph.

RYAN'S RETURN!

Original Silent Witness star Amanda Burton is back for the 25th-anniversary series

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Silent Witness

Monday & Tuesday, 9pm, BBC1

When Amanda Burton appeared as Sam Ryan in the first episode of forensic drama Silent Witness in 1996, she couldn't have imagined that, 26 years later, not only would the series still be going strong, but she'd be returning as a guest star, too.

But that's exactly what's happening in the show's landmark 25th-anniversary series, which takes the form of a six-part investigation.

We soon learn that, since leaving the Lyell Centre team, Ryan has gone on to forge a successful career with the United Nations, setting up a pathology department, where she met her husband, Jomo (Hugh Quarshie).

'When Jomo fell ill, they realised there was a lack of organ donors across the world, so they have put together this project to launch a health passporting scheme,' explains Burton.

However, as the scheme is being launched at a Liverpool conference, the health secretary is gunned down in an attack that also sees Jomo injured – and Ryan calls on the Lyell team for assistance.

'I love the notion that Sam is still a strong career woman, rather than her being hauled out of her knitting group,' smiles Burton, who relished the chance for her character to join forces with Emilia Fox's Dr Nikki Alexander.

'It was so special to work with Emilia on the coming together of those two massive beasts of forensic pathology,' she says. 'We both got a real kick out of it. The actors who come in and take over any show bring with them their own loyal fan base, and Emilia has a massive following.'

DREAM ROLE

Burton says that appearing as a guest star proved considerably less stressful than being the show's leading actor.

'Silent Witness was originally created around me, so there was enormous pressure at the time,' she recalls. 'I'd been filming Peak Practice before, which was very much a group cast, and then suddenly I was the lead. But it's the kind of thing that you dream about.'

However, as with her previous long-running role in soap Brookside, the 65-year-old says she knew the time was right to move on when she left Silent Witness in 2004.

'When I decided to leave Brookside, my father said: "What on Earth are you doing? You've got a steady job, an income and you're able to support yourself," says Burton. 'But I knew when I'd done my time on Brookside, and on Silent Witness. I just get very itchy feet!'

Jessica Hynes (known professionally as Jessica Stevenson until 2007) began her TV career with a role in period drama The House of Eliott, before starring as neighbour Cheryl in BBC sitcom The Royle Family (1998–2010). She played clueless Siobhan Sharpe in the comedy series Twenty Twelve (2011–12) and W1A (2014–17, inset), for which she won a BAFTA. In 2019, she won a second BAFTA playing mum Emily in comedy drama There She Goes.

HER NEW ROLE

Hynes, 49, joins Steve Pemberton and Reece Shearsmith as a guest star in this week's episode of their dark comedy Inside No. 9. She plays Helen, who has the usual parenting trouble with her teenage son, Zach (Noah Valentine). But when a random act of kindness brings the mysterious Bob (Pemberton) into their lives, the stranger seems to understand their problems. However, his offer of help ends up taking an unexpected turn...

NEW DRAMA

The Flight Attendant

Thursday, 9pm & 10.05pm, Sky Max & Sky Showcase (box set, Sky Box Sets & NOW)

In the first season of The Flight Attendant, Cassie Bowden (Kaley Cuoco) woke up hungover in a Bangkok hotel room to discover a dead man lying next to her – suddenly finding herself in the middle of an international conspiracy with deadly stakes.

Cuoco won rave reviews and an Emmy nomination for her performance as the alcoholic, spiralling Cassie. As the series returns, she hopes viewers will join Cassie on another wild ride.

EXPECTATIONS

'I was very nervous to do season two,' she admits. 'Season one was so good, I was like, "Guys, we got away with it – let's move on!" But we have come back swinging – we're bigger and better.'

As season two opens, Cassie has been sober for almost a year and is living in Los Angeles, still working as a flight attendant but now moonlighting for the CIA. But when one of her marks is murdered in Berlin by a woman who bears an uncanny resemblance to Cassie, she fears that she is being set up.

'This new job is taking the place of the excitement she feels she's lost with becoming sober,' says Cuoco. 'Even though she's pretending she's happy, we find out she's lying to herself – she's been running away from her problems since the beginning.'

Scott (Brendan Gleeson) and Ellen (Patricia Clarkson)

NEW COMEDY DRAMA

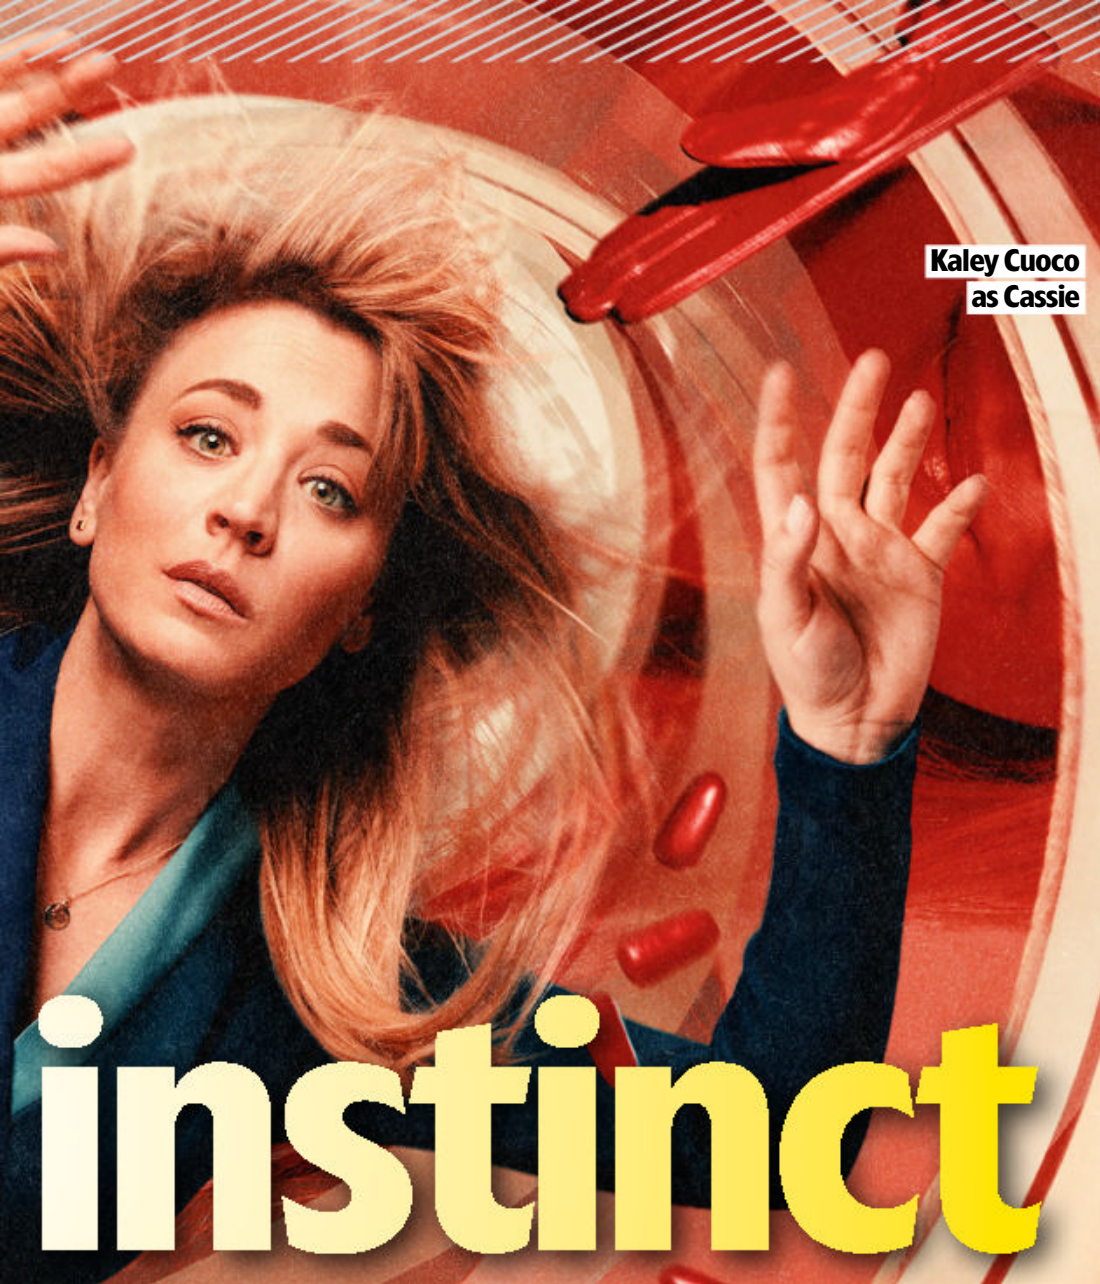

State of the Union

Tue, 10pm, 10.10pm & 10.20pm, BBC2 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

Written by Nick Hornby, the first series of Emmy-winning comedy drama State of the Union starred Chris O'Dowd and Rosamund Pike as married couple Tom and Louise, who met up in a London pub ahead of weekly therapy sessions.

In this new season of 10-minute episodes, we meet another couple – this time American – whose marriage is equally in trouble.

Six Feet Under's Patricia Clarkson stars as empty-nester Ellen, who drags her traditional husband Scott (Brendan Gleeson) to a hipster Connecticut coffee shop, where they have 10 minutes

Kaley Cuoco
as Cassie

instinct

The first season saw Cassie retreating to a 'mind palace' in moments of intense stress where she could speak with murder victim Alex (Michiel Huisman) and collect her thoughts.

While Huisman is not returning for season two, the mind palace is back – now occupied by multiple Cassies...

'She's going to be seeing all the parts of her that she hates,' says Cuoco, 36. 'I'm playing five roles – that's a lot of Kaley!'

New additions to the cast this year include Curb Your Enthusiasm's

Cheryl Hines as Cassie's boss at the CIA, Feel Good star Mae Martin as new colleague Grace, and Basic Instinct's Sharon Stone, who is playing Cassie's mother, Lisa.

STAR GUEST

'We were casting my mom and Sharon reached out to say she'd watched season one and was a fan of the show and she was really interested,' says Cuoco.

'I kept thinking it couldn't be real, but she joined our show and she's been amazing.'

before their marriage-counselling session to drink a cup of java and discuss their feelings.

CONFLICTED

Now in their 60s, the couple have withstood previous marital problems – including Scott's infidelities – and, with their kids finally grown up, Ellen wants a new chapter in their lives.

However, with Scott wanting to take things as easy as possible, Ellen starts to contemplate divorce.

'Ellen is slowly moving past this particular life she's found herself in,' says Clarkson. 'Not that it was bad – it's just she's yearning for something else. She's headed for a spiritual awakening, and that starts to bring conflict because Scott is quite settled and very happy with the life he has.'

Directed by Stephen Frears, the series was actually filmed on a set in London in just three weeks during the height of the pandemic.

'My mother told me I shouldn't come to London, until I told her who I'd be working with, then she completely changed her mind,' says Clarkson, 62. 'It was before vaccines were available, so we were masked up and not even allowed to go to a store. But it was still a magical experience.'

Land of the dinosaurs

A new Sir David Attenborough series brings the prehistoric world vividly to life

Apple TV+ Prehistoric Planet

NEW Available: Monday 23-Friday 27 May Genre: Factual
Season: 1 Episodes: 5

What was life on Earth like 66 million years ago, when dinosaurs roamed the land, seas and skies?

Drawing on the latest science and cutting-edge CGI technology, Apple TV+'s new natural-history series Prehistoric Planet, narrated by Sir David Attenborough, shows us the dinosaurs and the world they inhabited in more detail than ever before.

Set to an original score by Oscar-winning composer Hans Zimmer, and executive produced by film director Jon Favreau, the immersive five-part series goes out from Monday to

Friday, and visits a range of habitats, including deserts, coasts and ice worlds, to give us a greater understanding of how these giant creatures behaved and interacted.

Here, some of the team that were involved in making the series select their favourite sequences...

T-REX IN LOVE

We're used to seeing the predatory side of the tyrannosaurus rex, but in Prehistoric Planet this apex predator is also seen rearing its young and taking part in a courtship ritual that sees two adults nuzzling each other.

'This sequence epitomises the series, in that it shows a dinosaur everybody knows, but depicted differently,' explains showrunner Tim Walker. 'We know that a T-Rex had a sensitive face with a lot of nerve endings, and this means the snouts would have been used for very delicate behaviours, one of which would have been nuzzling for mating purposes.'

FINDING FOOD

The episode set in desert regions zooms in on the hunting prowess of a small, feathered dinosaur called mononykus.

'One of the struggles of living in the desert is obviously water,' explains executive producer Mike Gunton. 'But food is also incredibly rare, so you often have to have very specialised adaptations to be able to find it. These mononykus had, rather like owls do, discs on their faces that would allow them to localise very faint sounds, and hunt for food that would otherwise be impossible to see.'

FIGHTING LIZARDS

A resident of coastal waters, air-breathing lizard the mosasaur is seen having its skin cleaned by small fish, before engaging in a titanic tussle with a younger rival.

'It's great to see a battle between the old guy and the young guy,' says Gunton. 'The fact that the mosasaur is a lizard has all sorts of interesting consequences, one of which is that it has a forked tongue. His jaw opens and you see this extraordinary forked tongue that must be as long as my arm. It's quite similar to an animal like a giant Komodo dragon.'

ICE MONSTER

We think of the dinosaurs as being wiped out by an ice age, but Prehistoric Planet shows them surviving in freezing, snowy conditions in a sequence about a type of polar tyrannosaur called nanuqsaurus, which translates as 'polar bear lizard'.

'We know that these dinosaurs at the poles lived in cold, snowy environments,' reveals consultant paleontologist Dr Darren Naish. 'It was dark for most of the year, with freezing temperatures during the winters. So, yes, there were dinosaurs in ice and snow at the polar regions in the Late Cretaceous period.'

NEW Available: Friday 27 May Genre: Thriller

This satirical thriller sees two college students – Kunle (Donald Elise Watkins) and his best friend, Sean (RJ Cyler) – return to their dorm after a spring-break party to find a drunk, semi-conscious white woman passed out on their floor. Their room-mate, Carlos (Sebastian Chacon), who's absorbed in a video game, had no idea she was there, and the trio fear the police won't believe that two black men and a Latino aren't to blame for her condition. So instead of calling the cops, they load her into a van to take her somewhere safe – while, at the same time, the girl's sister is frantically searching for her. 'I hope that viewers can see a difference in perspective and the film sparks a conversation and can change something,' says Watkins.

Set in early 1990s New York, this drama traces the beginnings of hip-hop collective the Wu-Tang Clan. Moonlight's Ashton Sanders plays rapper Bobby Diggs, also known as RZA, who escapes into music when a violent drug war breaks out in his neighbourhood. As RZA pursues his musical dreams, he tries to convince his friends to give up a life of crime, including his older brother, drug boss Mitchell 'Divine' Diggs (Julian Elijah Martinez). 'All of the Wu-Tang guys came from the same place, but were totally different people,' says Sanders. 'RZA was the bridge who cultivated the group through passion, through hope, through never giving up. It's a story of how their circumstances didn't define them – it made them stronger.'

Friends are stranded in a remote French village – with a killer for company

Trapped in terror

The Chalet

NEW

Available: Friday 27 May Genre: Thriller
Season: 1 Episodes: 6

There's an Agatha Christie feel to this mystery series, where a group of friends trapped in a remote French chalet start getting bumped off one by one...

The Chalet is set in two different timelines, beginning in 2017 when a party of friends meet up for a wedding, only to be cut off in a small village in the Alps when a bridge breaks after rockfall.

Trapped in a chalet owned by the groom's father, the group are desperately awaiting outside help when they start getting killed by an unknown assailant.

As the village slowly begins to reveal its dark past, a series of flashbacks shows what happened 20 years earlier when Jean-Louis Rodier, a novelist suffering from writer's block, moves with his wife Françoise and their family to the same village.

Their son Julien arouses hostility when he befriends Alice, the local carpenter's daughter. But how are these events connected? And why is a hooded figure now embarking on a killing spree?

'The series has the classic ingredients of a thriller,' says co-creator Alexis Lecaye. 'First create a small world, then bring it to life, and make the characters disappear one by one. It could be on the planet Mars, an island far from everything, or, in The Chalet's case, a village cut off from the world. It's very exciting, and for a film-maker, the situation can be as playful as it is distressing.'

SETTING THE SCENE

The producers went to great lengths to find the right locations – the chalet scenes were filmed in Chamonix, while the village scenes were shot 100km away in Savoie, and the bridge scenes 250km away in Jura.

'It was quite complicated to shoot, especially in the chalet itself,' says co-creator Camille Bordes-Resnais. 'From certain angles, you could see Chamonix, from others, a little train that passed close by. But we wanted this chalet, because it is out of the ordinary, and has an almost dreamlike look. It is a real fairy-tale house, like something out of Hansel and Gretel.'

NEW HISTORY

Lucy Worsley Investigates

Tuesday, 9pm, BBC2

Lucy Worsley travels back through time to re-examine some of the most infamous and brutal chapters from British history in her new four-part series.

This week's episode sees the historian in Scotland, recounting the story of Agnes Sampson, who was at the centre of the North Berwick witch trials in 1590, which sparked witchcraft hysteria throughout the land.

Agnes was a midwife, wise woman and local healer, who was a trusted member of her community until she was accused of being a witch and plotting to kill King James VI of Scotland.

'Agnes was questioned by King James himself,' reveals Worsley.

Saturday, 9.20pm, Channel 5

Forty years after they split up in 1982, Swedish pop stars ABBA will be performing concerts in London this summer using avatars. Ahead of the eagerly anticipated 'return', this film looks back at what's happened in Björn, Frida, Agnetha and Benny's lives and careers over the last four decades.

Were Princes Edward and Richard killed?

George III

'She denied being a witch, which must have taken huge courage, but she was brutally tortured until she confessed.'

BRUTALITY

Her interrogators placed her in a head brace called a witch's bridle, causing her immense pain.

'Then they shaved her head to find what they claimed was the devil's mark, before burning her at the stake,' adds Worsley. 'It was so hard to read about her case and imagine what she went through.'

In the weeks to come, the presenter will be looking at more famous events, including the mystery of the Princes in the Tower, believed to have been murdered at the behest of their power-hungry uncle, the future King Richard III, in the 1480s.

Worsley explores the possibility the princes might not have been murdered, but simply banished.

'I can't wait to share the next twist in the tale of what we think we know about the "murder" of the Princes in the Tower,' she says.

'History's never finished; it's always being rewritten'

LUCY WORSLEY

'But this series isn't just about the past. It's also about what the past means today, as we look at ideas about childhood, feminism, pandemics and mental health.'

'I want to take a worm's-eye view of some big historical mysteries. It's interesting to see what we can learn from these fascinating events by looking at them from the bottom up.'

The other two episodes in the series shed fresh light on the causes of the Black Death, and also the supposed madness of King George III when Worsley, 48, examines recently released royal papers and explores the king's tragic personal trauma.

Richard Hammond charts the course of four British rivers

The River Severn

NEW TRAVELOGUE

Britain's Beautiful Rivers with Richard Hammond

Wednesday, 9pm, More4

He's more usually associated with land-based transport, but The Grand Tour's Richard Hammond is taking to the water in his new More4 travelogue.

The four-part Britain's Beautiful Rivers with Richard Hammond sees the 52-year-old presenter explore the rivers Severn, Test, Clyde and Derwent, tracing their history, ecology and impact on the countryside, and meeting people whose lives are closely linked to these famous waterways.

ON A JOURNEY

'I'm exploring some of Britain's most beautiful rivers, each with its own distinct identity,' he reveals. 'I travel the length of each one, from the source to the mouth, and meet some of the people who live and work along it, the wildlife that calls it home, and hear some of the tales, the history, recent and ancient, that makes every river a unique flowing, moving story.'

He starts with Britain's longest river, the Severn, which runs 220 miles from its source in the Cambrian mountains to the Bristol Channel, where it flows into the sea. Along the way he discovers how the Normans exploited the river to control the borderland between England and Wales.

'It's a story of boundaries and crossings uniting people,' says Hammond. 'It's what rivers do.'

Delving into history, Hammond discovers that the river has played a key role over the centuries.

'Romans, Anglo-Saxons, Viking invaders, Welsh princes and Norman raiders have all fought for control over it,' he reveals. 'The Severn is the great natural defensive barrier of Western Britain.'

Hammond's first stopping point along the route is Shrewsbury, where the Normans built a castle on a loop in the river to control the local population.

'For Shrewsbury, the river is absolutely vital. It wraps around the town like a moat,' archaeologist Nigel Baker explains to Hammond. 'What we have here is an instrument of foreign conquest.'

Further downstream, Hammond encounters Ironbridge Gorge, a symbol of the industrial revolution that was partly fired by rich seams of coal the river had exposed, and admires the Severn Tunnel, a great feat of Victorian engineering.

'The river is in control,' he concludes. 'Where it goes, towns, cities and cathedrals can spring up.'

Michael Caine and Aubrey Plaza make a fun odd-couple double act

COMEDY DRAMA

Saturday, 6.40am & 10.10pm,
Sky Premiere

Giving yet another tweak to the odd-couple and road movie genres, this comedy drama sends Michael Caine's widowed octogenarian author and Aubrey Plaza's rattled young publisher on a bizarre publicity tour to promote his new book.

Plaza's Lucy Stanbridge has inherited her father's successful publishing company but is struggling to keep it afloat, while sharks are gathering to snap up the business.

Then she discovers that Caine's reclusive Harris Shaw, whose one novel established her father's reputation 50 years earlier, still owes the company a book.

Lucy's last hope is to turn the novel she winks out of him into a bestseller, but the cranky Shaw refuses to play ball.

Surprisingly, however, Shaw's obstreperous antics on the tour turn him into a viral celebrity.

To be honest, the satire here is pretty unconvincing, and viewers may find Shaw's grouchy schtick a lot less captivating than director Lina Roessler and writer Anthony Grieco would like.

However, the film has plenty of amusing moments and is well worth watching for the stars, with Caine and Plaza's chalk-and-cheese chemistry succeeding in keeping the show on the road. 2021, 15, 102MIN

The shoe is on the other foot for Disney's bouncy Cinderella update, which gives the fairy tale hip-hop stylings and a gender-swap twist. In the Cinders role, El (Chosen Jacobs) is a plucky lad from Queens whose budding talent as a sneaker designer has been stymied by his brusque stepfather and nasty stepbrothers, who lord it over him in his beloved late mother's footwear store. On a clandestine trip into Manhattan with sparky best friend Sami (Devyn Nekoda), El runs into 'sneaker royalty' Kira (Lexi Underwood), the daughter of basketball star-turned-sports shoe magnate Darius King (John Salley). Thomas Jane's veteran cop, hard-bitten Ray, takes nervous rookie Nick (Luke Kleintank) in hand for his incident-filled first night on the streets of LA in a crime drama that follows a fairly familiar course, but still makes an impact. The film doesn't pull any punches when it comes to depicting police corruption and brutality, but the notion of 'rough men' who stand ready to do violence so that others can sleep more peaceably may make viewers feel a little uneasy. Back for her third turn as Helen Fielding’s irrepressible Bridget Jones, Renée Zellweger proves as funny and endearing as ever. She has a new predicament with which to wrestle in her inimitably cack-handed fashion: pregnancy. But she doesn’t know whether Patrick Dempsey’s smooth billionaire American Jack or Colin Firth’s uptight Mark is the dad... It’s a slender plot, but director Sharon Maguire makes the most of the gags in a screenplay co-written by Fielding, Dan Mazer and Emma Thompson. 2016, 15, 123MIN

ADVENTURE

Harry Potter and the Philosopher’s Stone

6am, Sky Harry Potter ★★★★★

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

The first Harry Potter film makes a big impact and does full justice to JK Rowling’s story. Daniel Radcliffe is Harry, the boy who learns he’s a wizard, and Rupert Grint and Emma Watson, as Ron and Hermione, are the friends he makes when he enrolls at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry. All eight films in the series are showing back-to-back until 2am. 2001, PG, 152MIN

HORROR

Arachnophobia

6.50pm, GREAT! movies ★★★

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

Scientist Julian Sands goes into the South American jungle looking for rare spiders – but brings an eight-legged terror back to the US. Meanwhile, doctor Jeff Daniels (who just happens to hate spiders) becomes increasingly mystified by the series of unexplained fatalities in the small town where he’s just set up practice... With plenty of humour as well as suspense, this delivers thrills and spills all the way to a great finale. 1990, PG, 106MIN

THRILLER

Dark Places

9pm, GREAT! movies ★★★

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

Charlize Theron is suitably haunted as the grown-up survivor of a family massacre 30 years earlier. But now Nicholas Hoult and his true crime club geeks want to reopen the case, for which her brother (Corey Stoll) is serving life based on the suspect testimony of her seven-year-old self. Based on Gillian Flynn’s mystery thriller, this is fittingly twisty and dark, but too contrived to be fully satisfying. 2015, 15, 110MIN

COMEDY

Desperately Seeking Susan

11.40pm, BBC1 (12.30am Wales, 12.40am Scot) ★★★★★

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

This delightful screwball comedy stars Rosanna Arquette as a bored housewife in New York who tips out of her dull life and into a fast-moving world of coincidence, confusion and switched identities involving breezy free spirit Susan (Madonna), the subject of cryptic messages in newspaper personal ads. 1985, 15, 104MIN

French Open

After his COVID controversy in Australia, Novak Djokovic defends his crown in Paris

LIVE TENNIS

From Sunday, Eurosport 1,
Eurosport 2 & Discovery+

Tennis fans will flock to Roland-Garros this week for the second Grand Slam event of the year.

Novak Djokovic will be allowed to defend his men's French Open title, after the 20-time Grand Slam winner was unable to compete in the Australian Open in January when he was deported from the country for not being vaccinated against coronavirus.

In his absence, rival Rafael Nadal took the opportunity to become the most successful man in tennis history by winning the Australian Open and his 21st Grand Slam title. The King of Clay has won the French Open 13 times, but faces an almost constant battle with injury, and is unlikely to be in peak condition this year.

That will be good news for his rivals, including Daniil Medvedev and Andrey Rublev, both ranked in the world top 10, and who have been allowed to compete in the French Open, unlike Wimbledon which has decided to ban all Russian players this year.

For British fans, there's no Sir Andy Murray, but Cameron Norrie will want a repeat of 2021 when he reached the third round.

However, most eyes will be Spain's rising teenage star Carlos Alcaraz, who defeated both Djokovic and Nadal on the way to winning the Madrid Open, on clay, earlier this month.

NEW GENERATION

'I really want to go to Paris to win a Grand Slam, to show my level to people,' says Alcaraz. 'People are going to see me as a favourite, but I take that as motivation.'

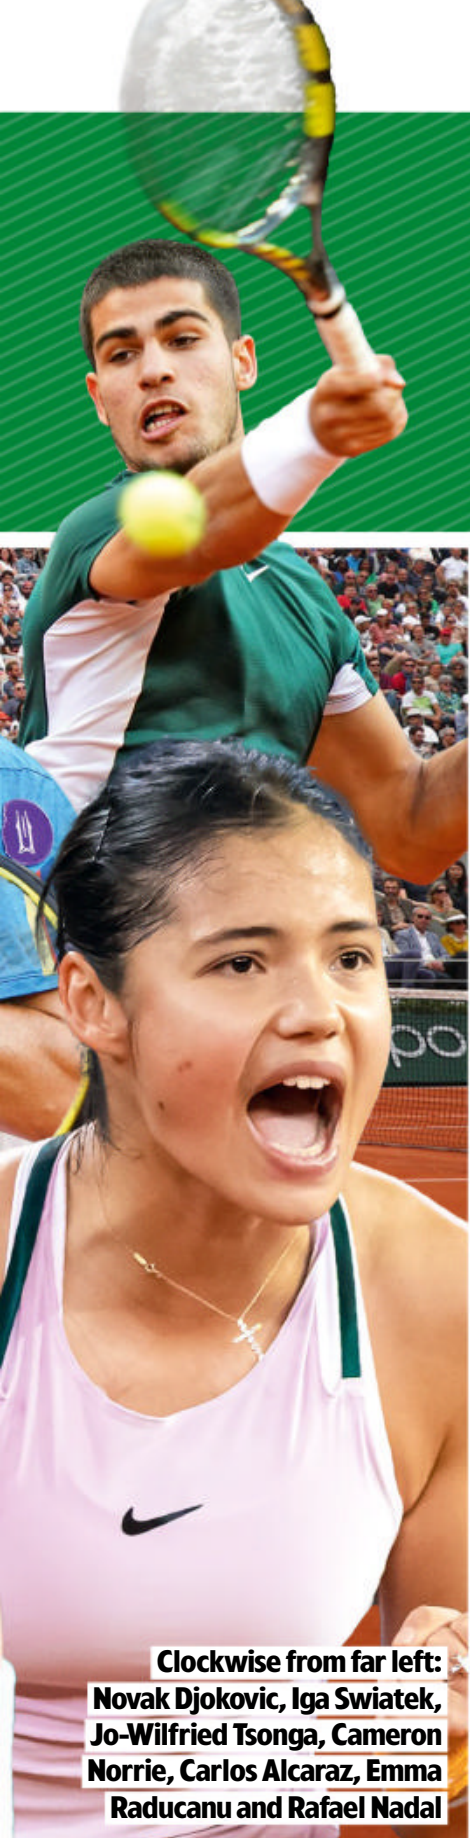

While the Spaniard is at the very beginning of his career, this year's tournament marks the end of the road for home favourite Jo-Wilfried Tsonga, who will retire afterwards.

The 37-year-old has struggled with injuries in recent years and missed almost the entire 2020 season with a back problem.

'My head tells me you can play tennis all your life, but my body says your abilities to surpass yourself are no longer there,' says Tsonga, who finished runner-up at the Australian Open in 2008.

'I hope that I will stay in shape for the French Open. I have always set myself high goals. This will be the opportunity to do it one last time.'

EMMA'S PARIS PREMIERE

Britain's Emma Raducanu has faced injury concerns but hopes to make her debut at Roland-Garros this week, and reckons we shouldn't expect a repeat of her US Open victory – as she only played her first professional match on clay last month.

'Clay is very new to me,' says the 19-year-old. 'I have been progressing with each week. I don't think I'm the finished product, but I'm heading in a good direction.'

New world No.1 Iga Swiatek, from Poland, is among the favourites for the women's singles in Paris, having claimed her first Grand Slam title at the tournament in 2020.

LIVE ATHLETICS

Diamond League: Birmingham

Saturday, 1.15pm, BBC1

A strong British contingent at the Alexander Stadium includes current European champion Dina Asher-Smith in a high-quality women's 100m, where she'll be up against Jamaica's Olympic champion Elaine Thompson-Herah and Tokyo medallists Shericka Jackson and Gabrielle Thomas. Former world indoor champion Andrew Pozzi goes in the men's 110m hurdles, where he'll face Jamaica's reigning Olympic champion Hansle Parchment. Meanwhile, Olympic silver medallist Laura Muir will open her season over 1,500m in an exciting head to head with training partner and Olympic 800m fourth-place finisher Jemma Reekie.

LIVE MOTORSPORT

F1: Spanish Grand Prix

Sun, race starts 2pm, Sky Sports F1 & Sky Sports Main Event

Ferrari's Carlos Sainz will want to continue his good season at his home Grand Prix in Barcelona. The Spaniard is fifth in the standings after finishing third in Miami two weeks ago, with team-mate Charles Leclerc leading the way at the top of the drivers' championship, 19 points ahead of Red Bull's Max Verstappen. Sir Lewis Hamilton has won the last five Spanish GPs, and six in total, a record he shares with Michael Schumacher.

LIVE FOOTBALL

Premier League finale

Sun, kick-offs 4pm, Sky Sports Football, Sky Sports Main Event & Sky Sports Premier League

Sky Sports will have comprehensive coverage as the season concludes and the final positions are decided. Manchester City will be hoping to parade the Premier League trophy for the fourth time in five seasons as Pep Guardiola's side host Aston Villa at the Etihad, while there could still be plenty to play for as Arsenal entertain Everton, Burnley host Newcastle and Leeds travel to Brentford.

Wednesday & Friday, Sky Sports Cricket & Sky Sports Main Event

The Twenty-20 tournament begins at Canterbury on Wednesday (7pm) with a repeat of last year's final which saw a man-of-the-match performance from Jordan Cox as Kent Spitfires defeated Somerset by 25 runs to win the trophy for a second time. There's another live game on Friday when Lancashire Lightning host their Roses rivals Yorkshire Vikings at Old Trafford (6.30pm).

Everything I Know About Love

FIRST LOOK

Emma Appleton stars in a compelling coming-of-age drama

Take a peek at BBC1's upcoming wryly funny drama Everything I Know About Love, which explores the romantic ups and downs of a group of twenty-somethings.

Adapted by journalist Dolly Alderton from her own acclaimed 2018 memoir, the seven-part series, airing later this year, is set in 2012, when a gang of pals share a house in London as they negotiate the perils of dating, heartbreak and friendship and the pains and joys of growing up. We also see flashbacks of them in their younger days in the early 2000s.

Long-time childhood friends Maggie (The Witcher's Emma Appleton) and Birdy (The Morning Show's Bel Powley) are at the centre of proceedings, while Alex Rider's Marli Siu and newcomer Aliyah Odoffin co-star as their mates Nell and Amara. Jordan Peters also appears as Neil alongside Connor Finch as Street and Ryan Bown as Nathan.

NEW EXPERIENCES

'I am thrilled with every actor we have on board for Everything I Know About Love,' says Alderton. 'We are so excited to see them inhabit the world of the show and bring its stories and relationships to life.

'It's a messy, boisterous, joyful romantic comedy about two best friends and what happens when they move into their first house share and into their first phase of adulthood.

'It's got my whole entire heart in it and I cannot wait for you to meet these girls.'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Simon Bird

The actor will star in C4's six-part comedy Everyone Else Burns as the patriarch of a Mancunian family who are part of a deeply religious sect and who face clashes between their faith and modern life.

Alan Carr

In More4's three-part travelogue Alan Carr's Adventures with Agatha Christie, he will journey around the UK to explore places that inspired the crime writer's mysteries, from villages in the West Country to art-deco sites in London.

Coming Back

Filming is underway on a second six-part series of ITV comedy drama The Larkins, starring Joanna Scanlan and Bradley Walsh as irrepressible Ma and Pop Larkin and airing later this year.

Sarah Lancashire and David Hyde Pierce will return as US celebrity cook Julia Child and her husband Paul in a second run of Julia on Sky Atlantic. 'In a bleak world, Julia is a welcome balm,' say executive producers Chris Keyser and Daniel Goldfarb.

Deep in the inky darkness of the Northern sky, shimmering waves of multi-tonal light dance, twisting and swaying. The lights of the Aurora Borealis were thought by native peoples to be a sacred connection with their ancestors and to be a mystical force to be harnessed for spiritual well-being.

The master jewellers of The Bradford Exchange have created a new masterpiece – the Aurora Borealis 'Mystic Of The Ages' Topaz and Diamond Ring is exclusive to The Bradford Exchange.

Gold-plating, diamonds & Svenka™ crystals

This expertly handcrafted tribute to the Aurora Borealis showcases pure Sterling silver with lavish gold-plating and a glittering 1.55-carat Mystic Topaz stone at the centre. Genuine 1 pt. and two 0.5 pt diamonds adorn the stars on the shank. Svenka™ crystals and rhodium-plating glimmer from inside the crescent moons on either side of the central stone. The band interior is engraved with: 'Aurora Borealis'.
